SECARDEO offers AWS customers a ready-to-go solution for Certificate Autoenrollment

Nr. 2 / 2021

Ismaning, July 12, 2021 – The Secardeo Certificate Enrollment Proxy is available as an AMI in the AWS Marketplace.

The Secardeo Certificate Enrollment Proxy certEP is available as a ready-to-start Amazon Machine Image (AMI) on the AWS Marketplace. This means that computers, users or servers can be automatically supplied with X.509 certificates from an individual AWS Private CA (ACM PCA). This enables a native Certificate Autoenrollment for users of AWS Managed AD or their own Active Directory in the AWS Cloud without the need for a complex PKI implementation and operation. The certificate registration of network components and mobile devices is also supported.

The Secardeo certEP has proven itself with a large number of customers worldwide who use it to automatically request certificates from internal CAs as well as private or public managed CAs. The certEP as AMI simulates a Windows Enterprise CA (ADCS) for native Windows auto-enrollment with the AWS Private CA.

“With certEP as a ready-to-use AMI and the AWS private CA, a managed PKI can be made available for AWS customers within a few hours. This is a highly secure, reliable and cost-effective alternative to a Microsoft CA that you set up and run yourself.” said Dr. Gunnar Jacobson, founder and Managing Director of Secardeo.

The Secardeo TOPKI platform also offers a number of additions to certEP for a fully automated certificate lifecycle management.
